

Nonprofit Finance Fund's Tools for Tough Times

In our current recession, nonprofits nationwide are in crisis. Many are being forced to cut expenses while struggling to maintain core programs. Nonprofit Finance Fund (NFF) has spent 30 years providing loans and advice that help organizations face financial challenges. We've developed a continuum of services to help nonprofits manage through tough times, ranging from educational workshops to customized consultations that diagnose and address organizations' specific financial challenges. These services help managers better understand, interpret and use their financial data, so they can make and communicate well-informed financial and management decisions. Our critical juncture financing provides access to capital. All of these tools prepare nonprofits to make decisions in the short term that leave them financially sound for the longer term. To learn more, contact your local NFF staff or visit nonprofitfinancefund.org.

